with speaker

Dr. James A. Boutilier

Asia-Pacific Advisor, Canada's Maritime Forces Pacific Headquarters

"Emerging Maritime Threats in East Asia "

Dr. James Boutilier is the Asia-Pacific Advisor at Canada's Maritime Forces Pacific Headquarters in Esquimalt, British Columbia.

Dr. Boutilier attended Dalhousie University (BA History, 1960), McMaster University (MA History, 1962), and the University of London (PhD History, 1969). Dr. Boutilier has held posts at various universities throughout his career, including the University of the South Pacific in Suva, Fiji, Royal Roads Military College in Victoria, British Columbia and the University of Victoria. Dr. Boutilier's field of expertise is Asia-Pacific defence and security.

He published RCN in Retrospect in 1982 and has written extensively on maritime and security concerns. He lectures nationally and internationally on political, economic, and security developments in the Asia-Pacific region.

With the dramatic growth of the Chinese Navy and mounting American and Indian concerns about Chinese regional and global ambitions, analysts have begun to talk about a naval arms race in East Asia as the maritime environment becomes increasingly brittle and problematic. Dr. Boutilier's talk will examine the changing balance of maritime power in Asia and the reasons for concern.

Also, visit <http://www.vanguardcanada.com/EngagingAsiaBoutilier> to view an article by Dr. Boutilier in the Vanguard magazine, The China conundrum: To engage or contain?, an interesting read and a preview of what to expect at our March meeting.

April Meeting

Director of Community Relations with BC Lions

Last Month Speaker

Gordon Adair, Dr. Brian Day and Alex Tunner

Straight vs. Crooked Thinking in Reforming Our Health Care System

Our February speaker, Dr. Brian Day, is a well known Orthopaedic Surgeon, a Past President of the Canadian Medical Association (2007-2008), and Founder and Medical Director of the Cambie Surgery Centre (1996). The Centre is a private, for-profit hospital facility owned by shareholders, operating outside Canada's publicly funded health care system.

Dr. Day has long advocated reform of Canada's system to allow for more competition as a means of reducing waiting times. That would result in savings, since patients would be treated before their condition worsened – thus, “we're paying for the privilege of waiting”. He supports the end of Block Funding for hospitals in favour of Patient Focused Funding, where revenue follows the patient. And, he believes that features of some European systems should be adopted in Canada.

Dr. Day pointed out that we actually have a multi-payer system – groups such as the Armed Forces, Workers Compensation, RCMP, prisoners and politicians are exempt from the public system, and able to access private care. Furthermore, many items are not covered, by the public system – e.g. dentistry, pharmacy, physiotherapy, artificial limbs and ambulances. And, 70% of Canadians supplement their public coverage with extended (private) insurance.

Dr. Day made many interesting observations about Canada's health care system:

- The rate of increase of costs is unsustainable, and costly new technologies are coming.
- Block Funding does not provide hospitals with a strong incentive to improve efficiency.
- There are many chronic patients in hospitals who should

President's Notes - "Volunteering"

Volunteer organizations are a vital component of our society. Although we rarely pay much attention to them in the daily hurly-burly, it's a sure bet that every Probud member has been an active volunteer in several organizations along the way. At any given time, roughly half of adult Canadians are involved in volunteer work, and they devote an average of one work-month of time annually to volunteering – that's about 160 hours.

Speaking "idealistically", volunteering is fundamental to a healthy democratic society. Voluntary organizations play a fundamental role in community health and vitality, and are essential agents in building "social capital".

Speaking "practically", there are some 160,000 registered non-profit and volunteer organizations in Canada, about half of them charities. If one includes unregistered ones, there are many more and, together generate considerable economic activity.

In the case of Probud our national organization, Probud Canada, is registered federally; however, of over 200 clubs, only one is registered – that's the Probud Club of Vancouver. For liability reasons, they decided to register as a Non-Profit Society under the BC Society Act. That's an issue our Club is currently looking into. The question is, whether the "hassle" of doing so (actually not that much) is worth the extremely low probability of it ever being useful. Your Management Committee would like to hear opinions from some of the great legal minds among our members.

Canada's GDP is $1.6 Trillion, and the non-profit and volunteer sector accounts for 7%, or over $100 Billion annually – that's comparable to the retail industry. Leaving out the large organizations associated with universities, hospitals and the like, still leaves some 3% of GDP, or $50 Billion annually for the many small ones.

The sector even has "trade associations" like Volunteer Canada "to strengthen citizen engagement and voluntary action", and Imagine Canada "to support charities and non-profits in serving their communities".

Thus, the many "little" organizations like ours are surprisingly important to the economy. Furthermore, the fellowship and stimulation our activities generate, have a positive impact on our physical and mental health.

So, the point of all this is to encourage you to step-up to the "plate", and spend an "inning" volunteering with our Management Committee. You'll be happier, healthier and live longer.

Alex Tunner

Last Month Speaker Cont'd

not be there; but they are "cheap", so the incentive is to keep them.

- Canada does not score well internationally in health care value-for-money.
- Canada has, per capita, ten-times as many health care administrators as Germany.
- Canada has data on hospital performance, but it's not released to the public.
- The annual cost of health care is $1100 for those under 20; for those over 80, it's (10x) $11,000; for those over 90, it's (20x) $22,000.
- In the past 10 years, 80% of new health care jobs in BC were for Administrators (Korbin Commission).

Dr. Day referred to the Supreme Court's 2005 Chaoulli-Zeliotis decision, which found (4:3) that Quebec's prohibition of private health insurance and its impact on limiting access to private health care was arbitrary, not justified under the Charter, and not connected with maintaining a strong public system. The issue of whether BC residents should have the same protection as in Quebec is now being tested in the BC Supreme Court.

Dr. Day recommended reading a classic guide to logical thinking and to ferreting out untruths and distortions: Straight and Crooked Thinking (R.H. Thouless, first published 1930, most recently revised 2011 – Hodder & Stoughton).
